Dare to Imagine

This master bath blends elements of a daring modern style with mid-century touches, bringing bright energy and character to the space. A periwinkle blue vanity is illuminated by sparkling pendants made of textured hand-blown glass. Shoji-style doors provide privacy without diminishing the open feel of the room. The wood flooring in the sink area transitions to a sloped floor to accommodate the open shower, while a textured wall and a series of niches provide practical functionality. The smooth edges of the free-standing tub enable a safe environment for the toddler while the generous size, thoughtfully placed shelf and orientation toward the light-filled wall of windows make it a luxurious retreat for the parents.
